

Physician Testimonial

“I am very pleased to see our nutritional supplementation research in children with Autism culminating in a comprehensive nutritional product, now made readily available through the generous time and financial support of so many. Nutrition and digestive function appear to play such a key role in children’s development – the “gut-brain” connection – even more critically when that development encounters difficulties. A wonderful, needed therapeutic option!”

Dr. Sharon McDonough-Means, MD, FAAP, developmental pediatrician and lead physician for national vitamin/mineral study with the ASU Autism/Asperger’s Research Program.
